

Pitchboard:

Low Battery Games is a site that explains my visual novel group of the same name and the game that we are working on.

Low Battery Games is a site about my visual novel group. It will not only talk about the people in our group and what we do, but also the game we are working on. The main page gives you the main summary of us and will have a link to a page that talks about our game idea, College Masters, and what work we have done or planning to get done soon.

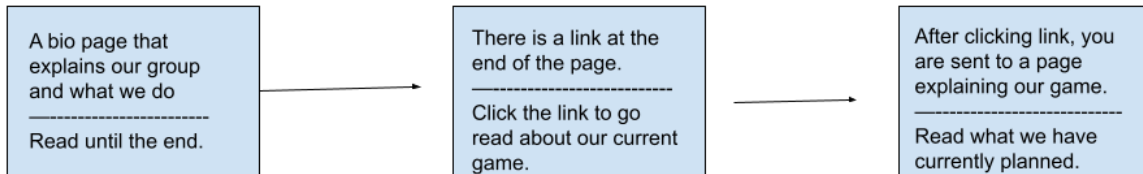

Lauren loves to play visual novels and dating sims. She has played all the ones she has and wants to find a new one to play. She played all the famous ones, so she searches for a smaller game that she hasn't played yet.

Gary has been a gamer since he was a little kid. He has played many different genres, but never a visual novel. He is interested in playing one and wants to find one. He doesn't want to play a huge and intimidating one to start and searches for a small visual novel to play.

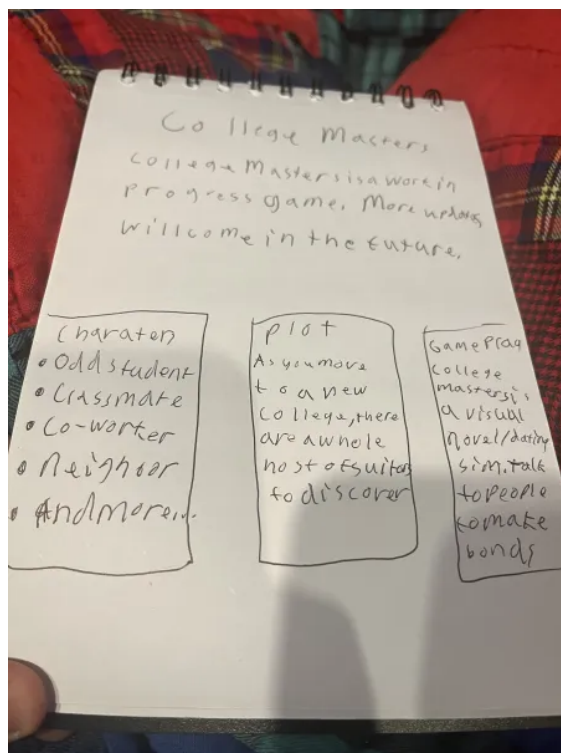

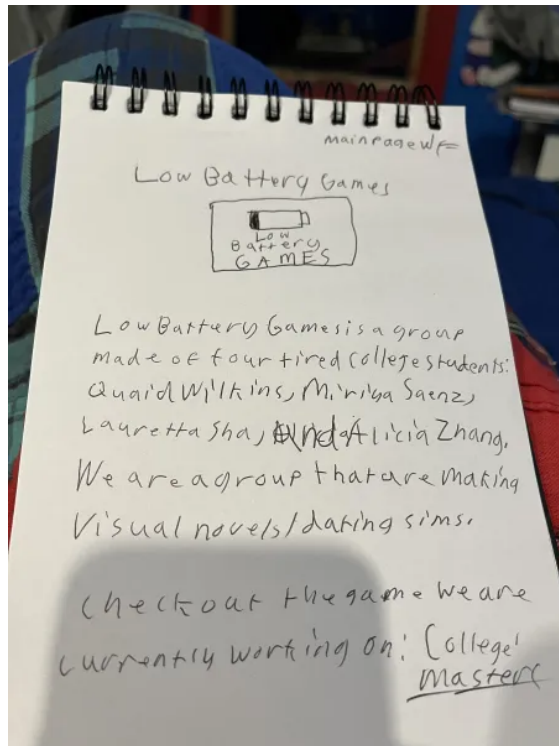

Bobby isn't a hardcore gamer and doesn't play almost any AAA games. However, he likes to support small indie game developers, no matter the genre. So, he searches the web to find a small indie game group/company to give his support to.

The site is similar to other game company sites like SuperMeatBoy.com and ScarletAndViolet.Pokemon.com. Also, although it's not one to one, sites like X/Twitter, where developers can give updates about their upcoming game, are a bit similar.

Shorthand Flow:

Wireframe:

Comp:

Low Battery Games

Low Battery Games is a group made of four tired college students: Quaid Wilkins, Miriya Saenz, Lauretta Sha, and Alicia Zhang. We are a group that are making visual novels/dating sims.

Check out are current game we are working on:

*College Masters*

Low
Battery
GAMES

College Masters

College Masters is a work in progress game. More update will come in the future.

Characters

College Masters will have many characters you can befriend and possibly get closer to. These potential suitors or friends include, but not limited to: an odd student you pass on your commute to school, the student that sits in front of you, your co-worker, your neighbor, and more possible options. Plus, you have a cat to pet when life gets a little too stressful.

Plot

As you move onto your graduate studies, a new college campus welcomes you! But unknown to you, there is a whole host of potential suitors, just waiting to meet you...

Game Play

College Masters is a visual novel/a dating sim. Form relationships and bonds by talking to people and making decisions that can affect how different people see you.